As this class is a 100 level class, it is expected that the students in the class are beginners. I feel that there should be some leniency when it comes to the assignments. For example, I was attempting to finish an assignment that I did not understand. Because of my weekly schedule and the number of times it took to complete the quiz with the required percentage, I could not complete it on time. I asked to have the deadline extended in order to finish it, and I was told that I would be docked 10 points. I do not think that it is fair to be docked points on an assignment that it not worth points in the first place. If assignments are going to be given, I think these assignments should at least be worth points.
